A. Identification of Event or Professional Discussion (including dates)

Robert Leiken of the Carnegie Endowment in Washington has asked me to participate in a colloquium on contemporary Mexico on 30 May, from 8:30 to 10:00 p.m. Lorenzo Meyer, a Mexican professor at the Colegio de Mexico will make the lead presentation. The session will be off-the-record and for background only. I know Leiken well (he has often cooperated with the Agency) and am confident the meeting will be of high quality and professionally conducted.

B. Who (generally) will attend?

From 15 to 20 Washington area Latin America specialists, including government officials (the State Country Director), former officials (ex-Asst. Secretary Vaky), congressional staffers, and some media.

C. Foreign Attendance?

Meyer, and perhaps a few other Mexicans, will attend.

D. Any awkward situations anticipated?

Leiken has asked me to comment briefly on Meyer's presentation. I anticipate making a short, extemporaneous remarks at a high level of generalization while avoiding any policy discussion. I am known as an Agency Latin America specialist, and will be introduced as a NIC analyst and Adjunct Professor at Georgetown. This should be a friendly, scholarly exchange that will not have any other reverberations.
